LOS ANGELES – Lisa Dawn Miller (lisadawnmiller.com) releases the Christmas classic “One Little Christmas Tree,” written by her father, legendary songwriter, Ron Miller, (music by Bryan Wells). Originally released by Stevie Wonder in 1967 for his one and only Christmas album, “Someday at Christmas,” (also written by Miller/Wells), the newly reimagined recording honors enduring family legacy, capturing generations of holiday spirit.

Currently in its 16th touring season, “Sandy Hackett’s Rat Pack Show” will appear at Seneca Niagara Resort & Casino in Niagara Falls, N.Y. December 12-13. Lisa co-produces the hit musical in which she also stars as “Frank’s One Love.” Lisa’s husband, producer/comedian Sandy Hackett, son of legendary comedian, Buddy Hackett, stars as “Joey Bishop.”

“I’m so grateful to record my father’s songs (ronmillersongbook.com), and put them in my shows, especially for Christmas,” Lisa said. “His poignant lyrics are timeless and have touched the lives of so many people around the world for decades. Year after year, people celebrate love and hope, sharing my father’s songs which are ingrained into years of tradition. ‘One Little Christmas Tree’ is timeless. Its lyric is more profound today than ever. It’s about the spirit of giving and the belief that with love, we can be anything and everything we dream.”

Writing Stevie Wonder’s only Christmas album was all in the family for the Millers, with Ron writing the lyrics to its title track, “Someday at Christmas,” “Bedtime for Toys,” “A Warm Little Home on a Hill,” “The Day that Love Began,” (with music by Lisa’s sister, Debbie Miller), “Everyone’s a Kid at Christmas Time” (with music by Lisa’s mother, Aurora Miller), and “Twinkle, Twinkle Little Me,” which Ron wrote for Lisa and recently released by Samara Joy, winning a 2024 Grammy Award.

Lisa produced the new single with music arrangement by Chris Hardin and Mark Matson, engineered by Sam Robertson. The cover art, designed by Jeanne Quinn, includes a photo of Lisa as a child in Detroit with her father. “No matter how challenging things would sometimes get during the year, my mom and dad always made sure our Christmases were wondrous,” Lisa reminisced. In 2010, Stevie Wonder invited Lisa’s son, then 10-year-old Oliver Richman, to share the stage to perform “One Little Christmas Tree,” after he heard Oliver’s recording of it.
